Over 1M Fake Goods Websites in Global 'Operation in Our Sites'

By Tammy Walt - November 26, 2018

Roughly 33,600 website domain names were criminally seized in a collaborative effort between ICE's Homeland Security Investigations (HSI), Europol, Interpol and police agencies from 26 different countries.

Over 1 million copyright-infringing website domain names selling counterfeit fake goods were criminally and civilly seized within the past year through the combined efforts of law-enforcement agencies across the world, high-profile industry representatives and anti-counterfeiting associations.

Europol's headquarters in The Hague

As part of an international operation, Europol's Intellectual Property Crime Co-ordinated Coalition (IPC3) has seized 33,654 domain names distributing counterfeit and pirated items online. The websites featured items such as counterfeit pharmaceuticals, pirated films and television shows, music, software, electronics and other bogus products. The joint international operation also involved the US National Intellectual Property Rights C-ordination Centre* and law enforcement authorities from 26 countries including EU Member States and third parties, and was facilitated by Interpol.

resulted in the seizure of more than 2.2 million e-commerce links, setting a new record, and resulted in 12 arrests.

This ninth incarnation of the global operation against counterfeit and pirated goods took down 63% more domain names than the last in 2017, and dwarfs the 188 shuttered in 2014, its first year. More than a million individual URLs were seized and 2.2m e-commerce links taken down.

It also led to the seizure of accounts worth over €1m ($1.14m), blocked hardware devices used to operate websites and disrupted online payment platforms and a virtual currency farm used by organised criminal groups, according to Europol.
